Peace House 25th Anniversary Year

Peace House highlights a 25 year history of serving survivors of domestic abuse in Summit and Wasatch counties.

Park City, UT -- This year Peace House celebrates 25 years of serving survivors of family violence and abuse. Our Anniversary Year will include monthly emails highlighting Peace House history, events with invited speakers, and will culminate in a summer celebration in 2021 where we unveil a plaque featuring our 25th Anniversary Year supporters. 25th Anniversary Year sponsorships are available through the end of August.

Peace House shelter opened in 1995 after several committed grassroots groups mobilized in response to the brutal murder of Nadalee Noble in a local parking lot at the hands of her estranged husband in 1990. Over the past 25 years, Peace House has grown and expanded our services, and transitioned from the original shelter and offices in Park City into the new community campus this past summer. Today Peace House is proud to operate as a community hub for domestic violence services and resources, and to be able to offer survivors comprehensive direct and support services, such as emergency shelter, clinical therapy, and legal advocacy.

As part of our commemorating celebrations this year, we are collecting, preserving and sharing Peace House history. We want to honor our history, and the many dedicated women and men who have worked tirelessly over the past 25 years to fulfill the Peace House mission and break the cycle of family violence and abuse in the community. We need your help! If you have photos, or a story, or any documents pertaining to Peace House history, please reach out and share. You can e-mail us at events@peacehouse.org.
